DO NOT MISS...

The two clearly differentiated profiles of the mountains of Aubenç. This range consists of two mountain ridges with Clot d'Aubenç in the middle. The slopes facing to Clot are smooth and rounded, while the E and S sides have an impressive vertical.

DID YOU KNOW...

La Casa d'Aubenç -at 1,480 m of altitude- was the highest inhabited point of the whole range of Aubenç? This house, which was finally abandoned in the 80s, is located in the heart of the plain of Aubenç and is surrounded by old crop fields.

ROUTE DESCRIPTION

The climb to Coscollet is a hard and demanding route that allows us to explore the range of Aubenç, a little known pre-Pyrenean mountain that offers places of great beauty: stunning views in all directions, beautiful meadows, steep and narrow paths...

From ❶ Hotel Can Boix leave to NW. You will soon arrive to a crossroad: take the path on the left (SW) following the signs "Ruta del Corb". You will get to another deviation: follow the path on the right, towards Grau de Porta and Quatre Camins. At this point, take the track on the right to Roca del Corb (N) and surround the rock at its base until you get to ❷ col of Mur. At this col, which is quite wide, take the path on the left (N) that goes down to Torrent de les Caubes. Leave the Roca de Sant Honorat on your right. From now on, follow the blue and yellow marks of the long distance route "Camí de Pallerols a Andorra". Go accross the torrent de les Caubes and several paths-tracks and climb through Obac de les Pletes to the abandoned house of Santpou. Leave the house behind and continue to ❸ Espluga de les Vaques.

You are about to start the most demanding part of the route: you have to climb more than 400 m to the plateau of Clot d'Aubenç. The last part follows Canal de la Jaça and it is equipped with ropes that you may find useful. Warning! Please follow the blue and yellow marks all the time. Once you finish the hard climb, continue comfortably trought the ravine of Clot d'Aubenç to ❹ crossroad of Casa d'Aubenç, a currently abandoned house. Continue on this track to ❺ collada de la Cadena, where you will leave the blue and yellow marks behind. Walk around 80 m more on the track and take the path on the right (E). You will get to a track that advances through the ridge of Coscollet that you will need to follow to the right until the top of ❻ Coscollet, a wonderful viewpoint!

From the top, undo the way to the crossroad of Casa d'Aubenç. Pass by the house and follow the path that climbs (W) to collada d'Aubenç. From here, continue on the left path (S) to col of Prat. From this small col, keep straight a few meters and climb to a ridge. Admire the landscape, turn right (W-SW) and descend the ridge to ❼ col of Creus. Now we take a path that zigzags down to ❽ Cortiuda. Go around the house Cal Bernardí and go left (E) to the site known as "la Collada", where you need to turn right and take the path that progresses through forests and clearings and links several hills to Roca del Corb. Go around Roca del Corb to the right where you will find the track you followed at the start of the route. All you need is to retrace your steps to Quatre Camins, Grau de Porta and ❶ Hotel Can Boix.
