DID YOU KNOW...

In the past, Can Boix was provided by the water from Font Viva? In 1897 it was set a wooden grooving that some decades later it was replaced by a more modern one.

ROUTE DESCRIPTION

This is a pleasant walk to Clot de Font Viva, a natural spring where the water springs up among the cracks on the moss covered rocks. The stream of Font Viva, squeezed between Roques de Sant Honorat and Roques del Corb, is one of the wildest and shaded places all along the mountains of Sant Honorat.

From ❶ Hotel Can Boix follow the NW path. Leave a pond behind on the left and get to a fork. Take the ❷ path which goes up the stream of Font Viva, always to the NW.

This path goes up the ravine. Watch out the wet rocks if it rained lately, they can be slippery. At some point cross the stream and go to the (orographical) left edge of the ravine. Move forward in a rocky land with oaks and box trees. The stream of Font Viva is located on your left at any time.

We shortly arrive at the ❸ crossroad of Sant Honorat. To the right there is the path to col of Sant Honorat. But you must go straight on following the stream of Font Viva. Continue to a narrow path. You will soon see a metal footbridge; if you cross it, you will see a waterfall (in about 20 m).

Go back to the path and go on up the ravine, get into a shaded area. Here the vegetation is dense and abundant. Finally, get to the so called ❹ Clot de Font Viva. This place is wonderful; the water springs up among the rocks covered by moss and the lush vegetation. You are now just at the base of col of Mur and squeezed between Roques de Sant Honorat (N) and Roques del Corb (W).

To take the way back, undo exactly the same route until the ❶ Hotel Can Boix. While coming back, enjoy the beautiful views between the mountain walls, with the Oliana fields on the horizon.

THE BEST OF THIS ROUTE

- See how the water, after some rainy days, flows and springs up among the moss covered rocks.
- Slowly ascent the stream of Font Viva. As you go up, the stream becomes more narrow, rough and shaded.
